NOTES TO CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (unaudited)

NOTE 1--BASIS OF PRESENTATION

eSAFETYWORLD, Inc. was established as a Nevada corporation in July 1997 as The SL Group, Inc. and changed its name to eSAFETYWORLD, Inc. in August 1999. It completed an initial public offering of its common stock in February 2000.

The Company is engaged in the sale and distribution of industrial safety, cleanroom, laboratory supply and first aid products on the world wide web and through conventional use of catalogs and toll free telephone numbers. In September 2000, it announced that it had commenced providing consulting services to other companies. In December 2000 it established a subsidiary, Blue Marble World, Inc., to sell personal care, personal first aid, and nutrition products to independent distributors commencing in May 2001.

The accompanying interim condensed financial statements for the three and nine month periods ended March 31, 2001 and 2000 are unaudited and include all adjustments considered necessary by Management for a fair presentation. The results of operations realized during an interim period are not necessarily indicative of results to be expected for a full year. These condensed financial statements should be read in conjunction with the information filed as part of the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-KSB.

NOTE 2--SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

A summary of the Company's significant accounting and financial reporting policies follows:

Principles of Consolidation -- The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the accounts of eSAFETYWORLD, Inc. and its subsidiary, Blue Marble World, Inc. (collectively referred to herein as the "Company"). All intercompany transactions and account balances are eliminated in consolidation. Through March 31, 2001, Blue Marble World's operations were limited to start-up activities.

Use of Estimates -- The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting periods. The principal assumptions inherent in the accompanying financial statements relate to the realizability and life of the acquired intangibles included in the financial statements and the realizability of the common stock received by the Company from its consulting clients to satisfy obligations under consulting agreements.

Revenue Recognition -- Revenue for product sales is recognized in the period in which the product is shipped.

Revenue for consulting services is recognized on projects for which agreements exist and service has been performed. Costs associated with consulting projects-in-progress are deferred to the extent that such costs exceed billings or are incurred prior to billing. Anticipated losses on consulting projects will be recorded in the period in which the loss becomes known. Consulting clients have the option to satisfy the contract obligation by issuing stock. If stock is received, it will be recorded at their fair market values, which in most cases will be based on market quotations. Unrealized market value gains or losses will be charged to earnings if the securities are deemed to be held for short-term trading purposes. Otherwise, such unrealized gains and losses will be charged or credited to a separate component of shareholders' equity. Management will determine the appropriate classification of equity securities when such securities are received and will reevaluate such designations at each balance sheet date.

Advertising -- The Company charges advertising costs to expense as incurred. Costs related to CD-ROMs, promotional literature and catalogs are charged to operations when mailed or distributed.

Basic Income Per Share -- Basic income per common and common equivalent share are calculated by dividing net income by the weighted average number of common and common equivalent shares outstanding during each period. The assumed exercise of options or convertible instruments outstanding during both periods would have been antidilutive.

Fixed Assets B Fixed assets consist of the following at March 31, 2001:

Website development costs	$188,138
Software	31,496
Database	54,300
Equipment	12,612
Total	286,546
Less B Accumulated depreciation	17,436
Net	$269,110

Fixed assets are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method based upon the estimated useful life of five years.

Expenditures for repairs and maintenance are charged to expense as incurred. Upon retirement, sale or other disposition of property and equipment, the cost and accumulated depreciation are eliminated from the accounts and gain or loss is included in operations.

Long-lived Assets -- Long lived assets, including intangibles, to be held and used are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the related carrying amount may not be recoverable. If required, impairment losses on assets to be held and used are recognized based on the excess of the asset's carrying value over its fair value. Long-lived assets to be sold are reported at the lower of carrying amount or fair value reduced by estimated disposal costs.

Intangibles B The assets acquired from Laminaire Corporation (see Note 4) consisted of customer and vendor lists and are included in the caption "Acquired Intangibles" in the accompanying Balance Sheet. Such amount is being amortized on the straight-line basis over ten years.

Blue Marble Startup Costs B The costs directly associated with the startup of a new subsidiary's business are charged to operations as incurred.

Statement of Cash Flows -- For the purposes of this statement, investments and time deposits having an initial term of 90 days or less are considered to be cash equivalents.

The Company maintains substantially all of its cash and certificates of deposit with one bank. The aggregate cash balances maintained at that bank exceed the balance insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The cost of all monetary investments at March 31, 2001 approximates their market value.

Income Taxes -- The Company complies with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 109 ("SFAS 109", "Accounting for Income Taxes"). Under SFAS 109, the liability method is used in accounting for income taxes. Under this method, deferred tax assets and liabilities are determined based on the differences between financial reporting and tax bases of assets and liabilities and are measured using the enacted tax rates and laws that will be in effect when the differences are expected to reverse.

At March 31, 2001, the Company has recorded a deferred tax benefit of $22,900 relating to the difference in the amortization period used to amortize the acquired intangibles for financial reporting purposes (ten years) and for income tax purposes (14 years).

Fiscal Year B The Company's fiscal year ends on June 30.

NOTE 3 -- ACQUISITION OF CERTAIN INTANGIBLE ASSETS

On August 11, 1999, the Company entered into an agreement under which it acquired certain intangible assets and rights of the distribution business of Laminaire Corporation for an adjusted purchase price, including expenses, of $1,211,000. The purchase price included 100,000 shares of its common stock. During the nine months ended March 31, 2001, the Company made additional payments under its guarantees and also incurred legal costs emanating from the Laminaire transaction. These charges amounted to $41,141 (included in the $1,211,000) and were charged to Acquired Intangibles. The Company may pursue legal action against Laminaire in connection with these and other matters although the likelihood of collection is very uncertain given that Laminaire has filed a petition in bankruptcy.

The total purchase price of $1,211,000 (which valued the 100,000 shares of the Company's common stock that were issued at the public offering price) was ascribed to Acquired Intangibles on the accompanying Balance Sheet.

The Company's President was also a Director of Laminaire Corporation. He did not participate in Laminaire's deliberations on the transaction described above. All of the Company's Directors voted affirmatively for the resolution authorizing the acquisition.

NOTE 4-- OTHER ASSETS

At March 31, 2001, Other Assets consisted principally investments in and loans to Harbor Ridge Communications, Inc. , an investor and public relations company, in the aggregate amount of $345,360. The terms of the transaction have not yet been finalized.

NOTE 5 -- COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

Consulting and Employment Agreements

The Company has consulting agreements with four entities controlled by officers or directors and an employment agreement with another officer under which the Company will pay minimum annual consulting fees and salaries of $392,000, $415,000, and $417,000 in each of the three years in the period ended March 31, 2004. None of these officers or directors receives any other cash compensation from the Company for their services but receive reimbursement for expenses including healthcare. Each of these officers has devoted an average of more than 40 hours per week to the Company during the nine months ended March 31, 2001.

Rent

The Company is obligated under the terms of three short-term operating leases for office space which call for minimum monthly rentals of approximately $2,250.

NOTE 6 -- STOCKHOLDERS=EQUITY

The Company was incorporated in the state of Nevada and is authorized to issue up to 20,000,000 shares of common stock having a par value of $.001 per share and 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock. Neither the certificate of incorporation nor the by-laws contain any provision that would delay, defer or prevent a change in control.

There are 3,000,000 shares of common stock issued and outstanding. Each share of common stock entitles the holder to one vote on each matter submitted to the stockholders. The holders of common stock:

- have equal ratable rights to dividends from funds legally available for payment of dividends when, as and if declared by the board of directors;
- are entitled to share ratably in all of the assets available for distribution to holders of common stock upon liquidation, dissolution or winding up of our affairs;
- do not have preemptive, subscription or conversion rights, or redemption or access to any sinking fund; and
- are entitled to one non-cumulative vote per share on all matters submitted to stockholders for a vote at any meeting of stockholders.

The Company's certificate of incorporation authorizes the issuance of 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock with designations, rights and preferences determined from time to time by its board of directors. Its board of directors is empowered, without stockholder approval, to issue shares of preferred stock with voting, liquidation, conversion, or other rights that could adversely affect the rights of the holders of the common stock. It has no present intention to issue any shares of preferred stock. There can be no assurance that it will not do so in the future. No preferred stock may be issued without the underwriter's consent for 12 months following the effective date of the Company's public offering.

The Company has not paid any dividends on its common stock to date.

Completion of Initial Public Offering

The Company completed an initial public offering on February 23, 2000 in which it sold 1,000,000 shares of its common stock for gross proceeds of $7,000,000 (and a net proceeds after all expenses of $5,721,604). As part of the Offering, it paid the Underwriter a fee equivalent to 13% of total proceeds as commission and an expense allowance and also paid $92,000 as a consulting fee. The Company also sold a warrant covering an aggregate of up to 100,000 shares of common stock exercisable at a price of $10.50 per share to the underwriter, for its own accounts. The underwriter paid a price of $100 for the warrant. The underwriter is entitled to receive 100,000 shares if it exercises the warrant, commencing on the first anniversary of the date of this offering until the fifth anniversary of the date of this offering. The terms of the warrant require the Company to register the common stock for which the warrant is exercisable within one year from the date of the prospectus. This underwriter's warrant is not transferable by the warrant holders other than to officers and partners of the underwriter. The exercise price of the underwriter's warrant and the number of shares of common stock for which the warrant is exercisable are subject to adjustment to protect the warrant holders against dilution in specific events.

Stock Option Plan

The Company has a stock option plan that expires in 2009 and enables it to grant incentive stock options, non-qualified options and stock appreciation rights for up to an aggregate of 450,000 shares of our common stock. Incentive stock options granted under the plan must conform to applicable federal income tax regulations and have an exercise price not less than the fair market value of shares at the date of grant or 110% of fair market value for ten percent or more stockholders. Other options and stock appreciation rights may be granted on terms determined by the compensation committee of the board of directors.

In October 2000, 450,000 options were granted with an exercise price equal to the market price per share at the date of grant.

NOTE 7 -- BLUE MARBLE WORLD

The Company is considering distributing a portion of Blue Marble World's shares to its shareholders although a final decision has not yet been made. Blue Marble World has entered into two agreements with related parties:

Management Fee Blue Marble World has agreed to pay a management fee to the Company under which it is obligated to pay $20,000 per month commencing April 1, 2001 plus 15% of revenues. The Company will provide general management, accounting, computer and web services, logistical and customer service functions on behalf of Blue Marble World. No other salary expenses will be paid to the Blue Marble World's officers who are also officers of the Company. The agreement covers ten years and automatically rolls over for an additional year at the end of each year. Rates to be paid are to be renegotiated on each contract anniversary date.

Both the Company and Blue Marble World have agreed to share information with each other, at no cost to the requesting party, for the following purposes, unless the sharing would be commercially detrimental:

- Each party has agreed to maintain adequate internal accounting to allow the other party to satisfy its own reporting obligations and prepare its own financial statements.
- Each party will retain records that may be beneficial to the other party for a specified period of time. If the records are going to be destroyed, the destroying party will give the other party an opportunity to retrieve all relevant information from the records.
- Each party will do its best to provide the other party with personnel, directors, officers or agents who may be used as witnesses in legal proceedings.

If problems arise between Blue Marble World and the Company, such disagreement will be settled in an arbitration procedure.

Commissions- Blue Marble World has entered into a distributor contract with Blue Marble Base. Two of the Company's officers and directors control Blue Marble Base. Blue Marble World is obligated to pay Blue Marble Base a commission based upon its distributor compensation plan even if these two individuals are not associated with Blue Marble World in the future

NOTE 8 -- SUBSEQUENT EVENT

In April 2001, short-term investments consisted of a bridge loan in the principal amount of $100,000 to SwapIt, which was made at the recommendation of the Company's underwriter.

MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF RESULTS OF OPERATIONS AND FINANCIAL CONDITION

Safe Harbor Statement Under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995

Information set forth herein contains "forward-looking statements" which can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology such as "believes," "expects," "may," "should" or "anticipates" or the negative thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology, or by discussions of strategy. No assurance can be given that the future results covered by the forward-looking statements will be achieved. The Company cautions readers that important factors may affect the Company's actual results and could cause such results to differ materially from forward-looking statements made by or on behalf of the Company. Such factors include, but are not limited to, changing market conditions, the impact of competitive products, pricing, acceptance of the Company's products in development and other risks detailed herein and in other filings that the Company makes with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Operations

The Company had no revenue generating history prior to July 1, 1999. In August 1999, it acquired intangible assets consisting of customer and vendor lists from the Distribution Product Group of Laminaire Corporation. It completed an initial public offering of its common stock in February 2000. It devoted the period from August 1999 to late 2000 developing its business plan, designing and completing an e-commerce website, establishing fulfillment systems, developing market tools and catalogues and establishing infrastructure. The Company adopted a very cautious approach in implementing its strategies because the experience of other smallcap and Internet companies as well as market conditions made it obvious that further access to the capital markets would be extremely difficult. Therefore, the Company became more committed to a strategy that does not require a high level of fixed costs and which will not require major cash outlays to establish brand recognition.

During the fourth calendar quarter of 2000, the Company's analysis of market conditions as well as the capital markets made it obvious that it needed to augment its initial business focus in order to increase the likelihood of successfully achieving its business goals. As a result, it decided to take advantage of the existing core skills of its management team and expand into two new areas, personal care and nutrition products and business consulting. Neither of these areas require substantial capital commitments.

At March 31, 2001, the Company has three core business groups:

Critical Environment Products B The Company markets and distributes disposable industrial safety, laboratory and cleanroom products to companies having employees working in manufacturing, construction or critical environments and those employees being exposed to environmental hazards. The Company operates a Business-to-Business e-Commerce site over the Internet that will shortly expand its product offering to 30,000 products. Its e-Commerce Web site is located at www.esafetyworld.com. The Company also offers its customers a 360 degree ordering solution by making toll free numbers and catalogs available for customers who prefer traditional ordering methods.

During the latter part of 2000 and the first quarter of 2001, the Company modified its strategy so as to target small and medium sized- companies as well as academic and research institutions. These targeted customers have more flexible purchasing policies and systems and existing suppliers are less likely to reduce prices to retain business. The Company is exploring the possibility of further modifying its focus to emphasize a limited number of unique and Hi-tech items rather than emphasizing a wide variety of products that are sold principally on the basis of price competition. This change is also being considered in light of delays in shipping caused by vendors reducing their inventory levels in response to declines in demand. In addition, several significant customer purchase orders were canceled because of capital expenditure or production cutbacks/

Consulting Program B The Company established a consulting program to assist companies to develop an effective business strategy and take advantage of financial, technological and general business opportunities. Fees due by these companies are generally payable in cash or stock, at the client's option. The Company currently intends to distribute a portion of any stock received from its clients to its shareholders after such shares become fully tradable. Two clients filed registration statements for this purpose in April 2001. These services are carried out or supervised by officers of the Company and do not detract from any of the Company's other core activities. It appears that revenues from this initiative may comprise a majority of the Company's revenues during the next 12 months, and the Company is considering expanding the resources devoted to this new endeavor.

Personal Care and Nutrition B In December 2000, the Company established a subsidiary, Blue Marble World, Inc., to sell personal care and nutrition products through a direct marketing chain of independent distributors. The independent distributors will purchase products from the Company's website or by use of faxes or a toll-free telephone number. The Company has developed a family unique products and production techniques, developed an attractive distributor compensation plan and entered into agreement with a contract manufacturer and a fulfillment center. A substantial portion of the Company's resources during the three-months ended March 31, 2001 were to the development of a website, software, marketing materials and the final design of the distributor compensation plan. These tasks are expected to be completed by June 30, 2001.

The Company will distribute its products through a system of direct or network marketing. Under most network marketing systems, independent distributors purchase products for retail sale or personal consumption. Direct marketing involves the sale of products through a network of independent distributors who enter into contract agreements or licenses with the direct marketer. Pursuant to Blue Marble World's compensation plan, products will be sold exclusively to or through independent distributors who are not employees of Blue Marble World. This approach is consistent with the Company's overall policy of maintaining low fixed overheads and using independent contractors wherever possible.

Many products sold by direct marketers are characterized as having high margins. Typically, distributor incentives and commissions represent the highest cost for a direct marketer.

Network marketing is an effective vehicle to distribute Blue Marble World's products because (i) a consumer can be educated about a product in person by a distributor, which is more direct than the use of television and print advertisements; (ii) direct sales allow for actual product testing by a potential consumer; (iii) the impact of distributor and consumer testimonials is enhanced; and (iv) as compared to other distribution methods, distributors can give customers higher levels of service and attention, by, among other things, delivering products to a consumer's home and following up on sales to ensure proper product usage, customer satisfaction, and to encourage repeat purchases.

Under most network marketing systems, independent distributors purchase products either for resale or for personal consumption. Purchasing by the independent distributor will take place through Blue Marble World's website or through faxes. In most cases, products will be paid for by credit card prior to shipment. Each independent distributor will be able to review the level of earned commissions by reference to Blue Marble World's website.

Other Initiatives B In early 2001, the Company started to take steps to move its website away from Apex Interactive to its own servers with complete backup capabilities in St. George, Utah in order to be able to:

- Have access to a proprietary database that can be used for the website, catalogues and CD-ROMs;
- Be able to increase the online customer service capabilities, add a message board and provide investor relation information on a timely and cost effective basis;
- Be able to make timely changes and additions to the database without incurring significant incremental costs; and
- Host websites designed for its consulting clients.

The website changes are necessary in view of:

- The new initiative into personal care and nutritional products will expand the need for a flexible database,

- The rate at which products are being added to the core product lines require a cost effective way to make changes to the database, and
- The ongoing importance of catalogues and CD-ROMs to the core business makes it important to be able to use a single database for all purposes.

The conversion of the website location is expected to be completed in June 2001.

The Company has also increased its in house capabilities to print catalogues and marketing materials and create CD-ROMs.

Operating Considerations - The operating results for the period ended March 31, 2001 do not reflect any significant contribution from these infrastructure and operational initiatives, and the operating results for the quarter following March 31, 2001 are not likely to benefit significantly from these efforts. The costs associated with those undertakings, combined with the amortization requirements for acquired intangible costs, make it unlikely that the quarter ended June 30, 2001 will be profitable.

Operating Results

The operations during the periods ended March 31, 2001 and 2000 are not comparable. All activities in the 2000 period involved delivering products to former Laminaire customers relating to orders that were generally very delinquent because of Laminaire's inability to get products from its vendors. Substantially all of these orders were nonrecurring. After the delivery of these products, the Company was unable to retain most of the customers involved because of their dissatisfaction with Laminaire or because they had already found other suppliers. In addition, Laminaire accepted orders for very small and partial shipments. The Company shipped those orders in 2000 but concluded that such orders did not fit into the Company's business model going forward because such shipments require the maintenance of substantial levels of inventory. The Company had no fulltime employees during most of the 2000 period and used the cash proceeds from sales to reduce its obligations to Laminaire.

Operating results for the nine months ended March 31, 2001 are as follows:

Revenues	$860,192
Cost of revenues	567,529
Gross profits	292,663
Selling and other	222,335
Profit before items set forth below	70,328
Amortization of intangibles	84,543
Other IncomeB net	(188,937)
Blue Marble World startup costs	139,113
Pretax income	$35,609

As indicated above, the Company devoted a substantial portion of its resources during the period ended March 31, 2001 on developing infrastructure and marketing initiatives. All of the sales in 2000 involved items associated with the acquired customer lists. Many of these items related to customers who were very dissatisfied with Laminaire and who, accordingly, had placed new blanket orders with other vendors. The Company was unable to retain many of these customers

The Company realized a higher than anticipated gross margin on sales in 2001 (approximately 36%) because of the initial impact of providing consulting services. This amount was negatively impacted by the Company's decision not to recognize income on a consulting engagement involving a client that began to experience serious business and financial uncertainties. The amount of gross profit that would have been realized on that contract would have been approximately $75,000 .

Amortization consists entirely of expenses relating to the acquired intangibles.

The Blue Marble World startup costs represent the costs directly associated with starting the operations of Blue Marble World, Inc., the Company's new subsidiary that will sell personal care products.

Other- net consists principally of interest income.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

The Company believes that the net proceeds of its initial public offering are sufficient to satisfy its working capital and business development requirements for at least 12 months. In addition, its emphasis on outsourcing means that its level of fixed costs is relatively low, less than $100,000 per month, and it has no material obligations or requirements for capital expenditures. At March 31, 2001, it had cash and certificates of deposit of approximately $4,222,413.

During the three months ended March 31, 2001, the Company made one investment:

- Harbor Ridge Communications, Inc. B The Company has invested $345,360 in direct investments and loans to Harbor Ridge, a public relations firm specializing in services to emerging public companies. The terms of the investment have not yet been finalized. The Company believes that Harbor Ridge has an attractive business strategy. In addition, Harbor Ridge will perform services for each of the Company's consulting clients that become public companies. Two of the Company's officers have also made investments in Harbor Ridge.

The Company has no commitments for financing. It would seek sources of financing if it had the opportunity of completing an acquisition. No specific acquisition opportunity has been identified at this time or is being actively sought.

Seasonality

The demand for many of the Company's distribution products is seasonal. Its customers have a reduced demand for products in the summer and during December because many of its customers=employees take vacation, plants are often closed during a portion of that period and there is a general reduction of business activity in those months.

The Company does not yet have a basis to determine whether its consulting business will be seasonal.

New Accounting Pronouncements

No new pronouncement issued by the Financial Accounting Standards Board, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the Emerging Issues Task Force or the Securities and Exchange Commission is expected to have a material impact on the Company's financial position or reported results of operations.

The Financial Accounting Standards Board has tentatively decided that goodwill recorded on corporate balance sheets, arising from acquisitions completed prior to the date that the FASB issues its final statement on the subject, should no longer be amortized. From the date of issuance, all goodwill would be accounted for using an impairment approach which means that it will be written down only in periods in which the recorded value of goodwill exceeds its fair value. If this proposal is adopted, it will impact the Company's future reported results of operations in a positive way.

Subsequent Event

In April 2001 , the Company made one investment:

- SwapIt- The Company made a bridge loan in the principal amount of $100,000 based on the strong recommendation of the Company's underwriter. The Company expects that the term of this investment will be less than one year.
